

Model pupils and teachers from Limerick school take to the catwalk

PUPILS and teachers in Ahane NS gave a masterclass in catwalk modelling at the school's fashion show at the Castletroy Park Hotel.

Staff including Patrick Ryan, Carolyn Cowman, Grace Ryan, Maura Normile, Ivan O'Connor, Karen Mulcahy, Leslie-Anne Wallace, Cathriona O'Brien, and parents Cllr Sean Hartigan, Mary Ryan and Lenor Gilheany, strutted their stuff in front of a large crowd to showcase a range of local fashion.

However, it was a total of 17 children from senior infants to sixth class who stole the show by proudly taking to the catwalk.

Millie Pinsent, fifth class, entertained guests with a beautiful harp performance.

Limerick hurling stars and Ahane GAA heroes Dan Morrissey and Ciaran Barry were on hand to preside over the grand raffle with over €2,500 in prizes donated from local businesses.

Produced in association with the Holman Lee Agency, the event featured new Autumn/Winter collections from a host of local stores and a shopping experience for guests with local craft, retail and jewellery makers in attendance.

Limerick City and County Council came on board to support local craft-makers from the 'Made in Limerick' collective who displayed a range of handmade goods, fine art, design, ceramics, textiles, glass, jewellery, natural skincare, wood, painting and much more at the event.

Ahane NS principal Siobhan Kennedy said she was delighted with the success of the night.

“This event wouldn't have happened without the generous support of our local community and the commitment of the organising parents committee”.

The Principal thanked the Holman Lee Agency, Castletroy Park Hotel, council and all of the stores and stall owners who took part and particularly those who bought tickets and were so generous with raffle prizes and sponsorship,
